VOLUME XIV

COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY MAY 27, 1914.

NUMBER 30

VERY GRATIFYING.

Grand Closing of the Columbia Graded and Adair County High School.

Commencement week was ushered in by the Baccalaureate sermon at the Christian Church May 17, by Eld. Z. T. Williams. To simply say the sermon was preached by Brother Williams would of itself be a compliment to any graduating class.

Having been in our midst so long, he would naturally have a deeper interest in the affairs of our young people and the community at large, than any stranger could have.

An interest so plainly shown in the tender and loving manner in which he treated his subject—"Education for Service."

The church was filled with attentive listeners, as he, in his usual impressive and practical way, directed the minds of the class to paths of usefulness in a life of service here, when "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

The splendid music was no small feature of the occasion.

Tuesday evening, May 19th, at the Christian Church, the people of Columbia were again highly entertained by an exercise prepared by the graduating class themselves, without the assistance or interference of the teachers. Each member of the class deserves special mention for the manner in which they carried out their part of the program, but for lack of space we can only say as a class they did honor to themselves, their parents, teachers and community. The members of the class of whom we are justly proud are: Mary Myers, Grace Conover, Ella Conover, Dora Eubank, Susan Miller, Katherine Gill, Loretta Dunbar, Dexter English, Albia Eubank, Bryan Garnett, Emmett Riggs, and Smith Gill.

Thursday afternoon, May 21st, the school building was thrown open to visitors, and the grand display of class work presented by each teacher in their respective rooms was one of the most interesting and enjoyable affairs of the week.

This work was inspected by more than a hundred visitors and only words of praise could be heard on every side for both pupils and teachers, who have toiled so faithfully the past term, with such gratifying results to patrons and friends of the school.

And while we would not snatch one laurel from the wreath of fame that encircle the brow of their predecessors as teachers, yet their work bears testimony that this has been one of the most successful terms of the Graded and High School, and that they have not neglected the good seed sown by Prof. Wilson and his corps of teachers in the beginning of the school.

The old hall was thronged with visitors from 1:30 p. m., till late in the afternoon, and even then, they left reluctantly, to make ready to be at the last, but not least of educational feasts given by this school, Thursday evening at the Presbyterian Church.

On this evening the church was crowded far beyond its seating capacity, to witness the graduating exercises.

Here again, the audience had a rare treat in the musical part of the program rendered by Mesdames Burdett and Montgomery and Miss Grace Conover.

The valedictory by Bryan Garnett, and essays by Misses Katherine Gill and Mary Myers were replete with splendid thoughts for the occasion, and delivered in a manner that bespeaks for them great literary attainments.

The Reading by Miss Loretta Dunbar was also highly enjoyed by those present.

And lastly, the address by Prof. Turner in the presentation of Diplomas, was one that will not soon be forgotten by those who heard it.

In a very effective manner did he point out to the class the dangers of the unknown sea upon which they were about to set sail.

But with words full of encouragement he gave them the keynote of success—"Work!"

Prof. Turner has that rare faculty as a leader, of weaving his own pure, high and noble thoughts into the minds and hearts of his pupils, in such a way as to make them their own thoughts. This faculty was brilliantly reflected in the thoughts expressed by the class in their exercise on this evening.

It is a gift of vital importance in one who, as he has chosen the life of and Under-Shepherd as his calling.

And while we regret to lose him as Principal of the school, we bid him God's speed in the work of the ministry, praying that the bark on which he sails, may sometime again come in contact with our own.

We regret also to lose Misses Farleigh and Hyde who will not return. But in saying good-bye to these faithful ones we also extend a hearty welcome to Prof. Wilson who will again take up the work he left two years ago.

We feel sure he will find that the "Good seed" he sowed, fell in good soil; and that the garden he planted and cared for so tenderly in its embryo has yielded an abundant harvest, which he may well be proud to own.

The graduating class at the close received many beautiful gifts and flowers, as a token of the esteem in which they are held.

Visit to the Monastery.

Mr. J. S. Breeding went to Gethsemane, Nelson county, last week, to visit his nephew, Wallace Beard, who is in the revenue service. The distillery at this place is an immense concern, employing a large force of men, and in the bottling department sixty women are daily kept busy. The revenue derived from this distillery in the year 1913, was $1,422,422.22. On the 13th day of May $48,000 worth of cattle were shipped from its fattening pens.

While at Gethsemane Mr. Breeding visited the Monastery and was conducted through the building by an old gentleman named Clark, who is a cousin of Speaker Champ Clark. There is a large farm connected to this institution and the Monks, hundreds of them, are busy daily, cultivating the soil. They also have vineyards and several different kinds of domestic wine are manufactured. You have to have a permit to visit the monastery, but when once in every courtesy is extended. Mr. Breeding is under many obligations to Mr. Clark and Mr. Dant who took a great interest in his visit.

The Reason Why.

Another Georgia town has voted in favor of saloons and here is the reason given by a citizen: "If we are going to stand for our women folks wearing shadow skirts and silk skirts, and transparent skirts and our younger women learning to dance the boll weevil, the Texas Tommy tango, the bunny hug, the bear dance, the half center, the buzzard flop, and the puppy huddle, and so on down the line, then the men folks might just as well have their saloons and the whole push go to hell together."

Rev. Mark Collis, pastor of the Broadway Christian Church, performed the marriage ceremony. The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate members of the bride's family being present. The bride was prettily gowned in a blue silk traveling suit. The groom wore conventional black. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Walter, Okla., their future home.

They will stop off at St. Louis, Mo., to visit Mr. Z. A. Taylor, brother of the bride, also at Stillwater, Okla., to visit Rev. Virtess Williams, brother of the groom.

The bride is a sister of Messrs. L. O. and A. O. Taylor, this place, and the groom a son of Mrs. Helena Williams, who resides in Columbia.

The couple were reared in the same neighborhood, Montpelier, Adair county, and have the best wishes of their many friends.

Called Back Again.

The following is taken from the Bluff City, Kansas, News. The subject of the notice is a son of Mr. W. F. Sanders, this county:

Chas. Sanders has been engaged to teach the Morgan school. This will be the third successive term for Mr. Sanders at that school, which is evidence of the satisfaction he has given as a teacher in a rural district school—about one of the hardest schools in which to win the approbation of both pupils and parents. It speaks well for him. A man must be a diplomat, a strict and lenient judge, a jovial and sociable fellow, and possess a dozen other attributes of like character to hold his place in the esteem of the patrons and pupils of a rural school year after year.

Mule For Sale.

An extra good horse mule, 8 years old G. B. Cheatham, Milltown, Ky. 30-2t.

The municipal board of the town of Columbia could do an act that would be very pleasing to the community if it would purchase a street sprinkler. Dust is very unhealthy and besides it ruins houses, dresses, etc., which is not only aggravating, but makes wearing apparel more expensive. The men have to foot the bills, they pay the taxes. Give the town a sprinkler.

I will conduct services at the Presbyterian church Sunday night, May 31st. The purpose being to report the last session of the Southern Baptist Convention. O. P. Bush, pastor of Baptist church.

If you want a Good Jersey cow or heifer, call on J. B. Coffey.

All arrangements have been made for the completion of the United Brethren church building at this place, and the work will be pushed as fast as material can be laid on the site.

Flies Breed in Filth.

"If at first you don't succeed, swat swat again!"

A mild winter and spring presage the early arrival of our bit-terest enemies—flies—in vastly increased numbers. Immediate, well directed efforts must be put forth if the threatening dangers are to be minimized. The time to fight flies is before they become flies—when in the egg or when they are maggots.

The problem of elimination of filth. No filth, no flies.

Flies breed in filth, play on filth, eat filth and distribute filth—the filthiest kind of filth, too.

If we do away with the breeding places of flies there will be no flies.

Therefore the way to swat flies now is to clean up the fly-breeding filth.

Clean up, keep clean and see that your neighbors keep likewise, and you will have few, if any, flies to contend with. Of course have your swatter ready for the first arrivals.

The Only Way.

A western ranchman, who had spent all his life with horses and had little experience with womankind, got married. After the ceremony the bride and groom mounted their horses and started along the mountain trail towards home. Going along a ledge the bride's horse stumbled and fell down the steep embankment.

"It was mighty hard luck for both the woman and the horse," the ranchman said in telling the story of the accident; "each of 'em broke a leg."

"What did you do?" asked the friend.

"Well, what could I do?" replied the other sorrowfully. "I shot 'em."

Jeny Wren.

This friendly little bird is found anywhere from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, but is most common in the United States. It is a tiny bird, the upper part of the body is a cinnamon brown color and the breast and chin a grayish white. The tail and wings are finely barred. When most of the song birds are subdued into silence, no mid-day is too hot for the tireless little wren to send forth his gushing song. As the bird is only four or five inches long it seems ridiculously small for such a volume of sounds.

Like the barn swallows, the wrens seek out the small nesting places year after year, and will announce their return of a spring morning beneath your window in a voice of song sweetness. But, in spite of his notes of melody, the wren is a scold for all that, and little Jenny Wren on the nest will loosen a scolding tongue on cat or squirrel or bird or human being that seems likely to disturb her home. Vivacious and excitable, these birds are easily alarmed and their short tails held erect work back and fourth with ridiculous movements.

If left unmolested, this busy little bird is also a happy one as she goes about her nest building with cheerful song. She can make a happy home anywhere and out of almost anything. Sticks or strings or rags, bits of straw, grass or feathers, any or all, will suffice for material. And almost any place seems to satisfy her—an old box, a crevice beneath the eaves or a hole in a tree. The wren has been known to build in the pocket of a cast-off coat or in a discarded shoe. A hole, no matter where, evidently means safety to these little birds. Once built, the nest is kept beautifully clean while the six or seven speckled flesh-colored eggs are being hatched.

Child Cross? Feverish? Sick?

A cross, peevish, listless child, with coated tongue, pale, doesn't sleep; eats sometimes very little, then again ravenously; stomach sour; breath fetid; pains in stomach, with diarrhea; grinds teeth while asleep, and starts up with terror—all suggest a Worm Killer—something that expels worms, and almost every child has them. Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed. Get a box to-day. Start at once. You won't have to coax, as Kickapoo Worm Killer is a candy confection. Expels the worms, the cause of your child's trouble. 25c. Not at All Extraordinary.

Several years ago a tourist fell over the rock from a height of about three hundred feet, near Europa Point, Gibraltar. He was killed, of course. The lieutenant in charge of the guard room, however, inserted in his guard report for the day that "nothing unusual had occurred."

For this he was "carpeted" before the town mayor, who asked for an explanation.

"Well, sir," replied the young officer, a Scotchman, "if the puir mannie had na' been kilt it would have been a very extraordinary fact; but as the puir body was kilt—why, sir I thought it was na' extraordinary or unusual."

The plea was accepted.

Knocker's Prayer.

Lord, please don't let this town grow. I've lived here forty years and during that time I have fought every improvement; I have knocked everything and everybody; no firm or individual has ever established a business here without my doing all that I could to put them out of business. I have used every method known to the knocking fraternity to injure the business: I've lied about them and would have stolen from them if I had the courage. I have done all I could to keep the town from growing; never have I spoken a good word for Mildred loved Edgar Corneal and, even if she had not, would rather have married an ogre than Wingate. The problem was how to force him to release her, which was the only way by which she could inherit her property. She treated him scornfully, but did not secure any response. Wingate bore it without retort. By the terms of the will if Mildred did not marry him within two years he was to hold the property in trust so long as he lived, to have the income for himself.

One day Mildred disappeared. When Wingate learned of this move he was disquieted. He feared some game, but could think of no way by which she could secure her fortune. What he most desired was that she would withhold her consent to marry him till the two years' grace had elapsed, after which he would enjoy the income of the property and manage the business so long as he lived. The will read "In case the said Samuel Wingate shall refuse to marry my daughter Mildred Winterfield, at any time within the said two years," etc. Wingate read this over and considered the matter safe. The will did not say how he was to refuse, but this made no difference. He would not refuse in any form.

Wingate had no desire to marry Mildred Winterfield. Indeed, he had nothing to gain by a marriage with her, for in that case she would inherit the property and might make it unpleasant for him. He had seen her only once, when she was about fifteen years old, an awkward girl, who was changing to womanhood. At the time of her father's death she was a fine looking woman, with golden hair, fair complexion and dark brown eyes.

One day a young woman called at Wingate's office and applied for a position as typewriter and stenographer. There were no vacancies, and she was refused. A few days later Wingate received a note signed Elizabeth Darrow, asking him if he would favor her with a call since she had something to tell him to his advantage. This request, taken with certain glances Miss Darrow had given him, made him suspicious that she had designs upon him. Then suddenly he was struck with an idea.

"I do believe," he said to himself, "that she is a decoy of Mildred Winterfield and her lover. The object is to get me in a position where it can be proved that I have made love to this woman and asked her to marry me. That would not be refusing to marry Mildred, but they doubtless have hit upon a plan to twist evidence so as to make it appear that in making love to their decoy I have refused to marry Mildred. There are plenty of lawyers smart enough to do that. All I have to say is if they catch me napping they must get up early in the morning."

After considerable deliberation he determined not to let it appear that he suspected their game till he had elicited more of it from the decoy. He made no reply to Miss Darrow's communication, confident that he would hear from her again. He did hear by note, in which references were made to love passages between them which had never occurred. This confirmed Wingate's suspicions. But he did not know what action to take, or, rather, he decided that he had better take no action at all.

In time another letter came from Miss Darrow, hinting at proceedings for breach of promise. Wingate congratulated himself on his foresight in laying down the scheme in advance. A trumped up case of breach of promise to Miss Darrow was to be turned into a refusal to marry Miss Winterfield. It did not appear to Wingate that he should pay any attention to these notes. By doing so he might get caught in the trap being laid for him. All he did was to give orders that if "the Darrow woman" came to see him she was to be told that she could not see him. Notwithstanding this order, one day he looked up from his desk and saw his unwelcome visitor standing near him.

"I have called," she said, "to ask if you intend to do me justice." "I don't know you, madam."

"You do know that you have asked me to be your wife."

"I have not."

"I give you your choice either to marry me or stand suit for $100,000 damages."

"I will neither marry you nor pay a cent."

Wingate's desk was at one end of a long room, filled with clerks, and he spoke the words purposely loud enough for all to hear. No sooner were they uttered than the woman turned to those present and said:

"I call upon you all to witness that I, Mildred Winterfield, have been refused in marriage by Samuel Wingate."

FOR JUDGE OF COURT OF APPEALS.

We are authorized to announce BOLLIN HURT a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, in the Third district, subject to the action of the Democratic voters, expressed at the August primary.

The passing of Senator W. O. Bradley, whose death occurred in his apartments, Washington, D. C., last Saturday night at 10 o'clock, removes from Kentucky one of her most distinguished citizens. The Republican party of the State will feel the loss, as he was the leading spirit in all party gatherings. He had served the State as Governor; was a national committeeman for many years, had been a delegate-at-large to seven National Conventions; was indorsed for Vice President by the State Republican Convention in 1888, and received 105 votes in the National Convention. He was indorsed for President in 1896. In all his party gatherings in Kentucky he was the recognized leader. The funeral and burial will take place at Frankfort this, Tuesday afternoon.

A horrible murder was perpetrated at Danville, Ky., last Friday night. The room of Zelma Young, a thirteen year old girl, was entered and her head almost severed from her body. It is supposed the deed was committed by a burglar, who got into the room waking the girl. She started to make an alarm, when she was strangled with a tablecloth and her throat cut. Every effort is being made to find the murderer. The physicians say that the girl could not possibly have committed the deed. There were no men folk in the house at the time. The girl's parents are respectable people.

The Graded School at this place, under the management of Prof. C. Turner and a competent corps of assistant teachers, closed a very successful term here last week. The examinations and other exercises throughout the closing were very satisfactory, showing that the pupils have greatly advanced during the school year. Prof. Turner is a hard worker, his every movement showing that he felt a deep interest in the success of the school. His zeal was no less manifested by the teachers who were under him.

Col. Roosevelt, who recently returned to the United States, has been busy since his arrival, conversing with Progressive leaders. He says that he will visit every State in the Union. It is said that there is no probability of the old liners and the Progressives coming together.

Gov. McCreary will appoint a United States Senator to fill out the late Senator Bradley's term which would have expired the 4th of next March.

The Presbyterian Church South is in session at Kansas City. Action on the proposed union of the seventeen branches of the Presbyterian Church, will be postponed at this gathering.

The mediators to settle the trouble between Mexico and the United States are at work at Niagara Falls, and it is believed that the trouble will finally be adjusted.

Obituary.

Last Saturday morning, May the 17th, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wolford and took away their much loved son, Hampton. He had been a great sufferer for several weeks. Physicians from Louisville and Campbellsville assisted Dr. Gabbert in the case. Yes, all that physicians, family and friends and loved ones could do was done, but all in vain.

Death is our mortal appointment, protracted sickness or continued illness may not come to us all, but death is certain. David said: "The living know that they shall die." Death invades the home and takes away our loved ones, though we theorize, speculate, guess and try to explain it away, yet we must return to the conclusion of Paul. "It is appointed unto men once to die and after death the judgment."

Hampton was born in October, 1890, died May 17th, 1914, making him a little more than 23 years old. He confessed his faith in Christ at an early age and united with the Casey Creek Christian church during a meeting held by Eld. W. G. Montgomery. Like scores of people he wandered away from the fold, but a few weeks before he died he called me to his home and said: "I want to talk to Bro. Young privately." Every one present except Hampton and myself left the room. He told me his weakness and his sin and said: "I have intended to reconsecrate my life to God for a long time." He said "I have changed my life and have repented of my sins and pray to God every day." I asked him if he wanted me to hold a service with him, and he said: "yes, I want to get back to God." We called his mother, grandfather and Mr. Beard into the room and in the presence of this little audience and God we read and prayed. We all rejoiced in a sacred nearness to God and Hampton found his way back to the Lord Jesus.

While he was sick his mother was giving him some water in a glass and he told her to pour it all out so he could see through the glass and give him the testament, and he tried to read, "The just shall live by faith." Bro. Z. T. Williams visited him and said: "Hampton trust in the Lord, you do, don't you?" He said: "I certainly do." Then mother, father, brothers, sisters and friends,

Let faith exalt your joyful voice,
And now in triumph sing,
Oh grave, where is thy victory,
And where, O Death, thy sting?
Jesus! while our hearts are bleeding,
O'er the spoils that death hath won,
We would at this sad, sad meeting,

Calmly say, Thy Will be done.

Forasmuch as it hath pleased Almighty God in His wise providence to take from our midst our beloved brother and son, we must give him up looking for the general resurrection in the last day and the life of the world to come through Jesus Christ our Lord, at whose coming in glorious majesty to judge the world. The earth and sea shall give up their dead and the corruptable boddies of those who sleep in Him shall be changed and made like unto His glorious body. Then shall we know as we are known, for,

There is a land above,
Where parting is unknown.
A whole eternity of love,
Form'd for the good alone,
And faith beholds the dying here,
Transplanted to a happier sphere.

How to Avoid Potato Scab and Dry Rot.

These two diseases are prevalent in Kentucky, and now is the time to lessen their injuries on the crop of 1914, if they are to be lessened.

Scab is a fungus disease resulting in a roughness of the surface of potatoes, when served leaving most of the outside fissured, corky and black. When used for seed, such potatoes are likely to cause scab on the new crop, and are unfit for planting if one wants clean skinned potatoes. If but slightly affected they may be disinfected by soaking them for two hours in thirty gallons of water containing one pint of formalin. A gunny sack containing the potatoes may be set in a barrel containing the water and formalin, and after treatment it is only necessary to lift the sack out, drain off the fluid, and spread the potatoes out to dry before cutting them.

Dry rot is also a fungus disease. Potatoes sometimes appear to be perfectly sound, yet when cut show a brown line of varying thickness just within the skin and often following the greater part of the circumference. This is the work of a dry rot fungus, generally, in Kentucky, a species known as Fusarium oxysporum. Such potatoes ought always to be rejected. They are certain to convey the disease to the crop. No treatment will reach the fungus within the potatoes. When buying potatoes it is well to cut some of them to see if the disease is present.

Both scab and dry rot fungi remain in the soil for a time, hence old potato land is likely to produce more badly diseased potatoes than new land.

(1) The selection of sound seed, (2) treatment with formalin or corrosive sublimate, and (3) rotation, are the means by which both of these pests may be avoided.

guess I left in time. I don't think I care any more about Iowa. We had an awful storm the 10th, of May. The wind awful hard and blew down barns and silos, and blew one man's wagon through his poultry house so you can see it was an awful storm. The people at the place where I worked were so scared. I didn't get the least bit frightened, but the house shook awfully and the lightning kept me a good light.

Well, I have met lots of my old Kentucky friends here at this place. I was in Tallula yesterday afternoon and the first one I saw was Mr. Ed Wethington and Miss Alma Goode, both from near Clementsville, Ky. Mr. Ed had just arrived, left Kentucky the 13th, so we were all glad to see him. I have visited my old chum, Paul Goode, near Petersburg, and you bet he was glad to see me and I sure was him. So I will close as I have to go up town.

One of Morgan's Men.

Girl of the yellow roses,
In the glow of a bygone day,
Dark were your eyes with dreaming,
Wistful your smile away,
And I, your gay young lover,
Had small chance of wooing you then
For you were a girl of Kentucky
And I one of Morgan's men.
I can see you yet as you waited
'Neath the elm by the old yard gate,
And your heart beat fast as my horse's hoofs,
For Young Love had found his mate.
High were my hopes and my heart,
dear,
I laughed at your bodings then,
And I left you, my Lady of roses,
To ride with Morgan's men.

Scurry of hoofs on the moonlit road,
Flashing of swords in flight,
Daredevil song 'midst the roar of guns,
Daredevil charge through the night,
Here with the twilight shadows,
There when day broke again:
Like the bolt of the fierce white lightning
Was the rush of Morgan's men.

But the war was not for our winning,
Girl of the days of yore,
Outworn we were and outnumbered,
Beaten and bruised and sore
Yet from defeat you called me
Back to your heart again
And lifted your loyal lips to my kiss
Alas for Morgan's men!

Love, the breath of your roses
Was never half so sweet
As your smile when into the "way of peace"
You guided my weary feet.
And that smile is still my sunshine,
And the dreams you were dreaming
then
Have all come true for a fellow
Who was one of Morgan's men.

"It will do me as long as I will need a buggy, and his daughter noticed him give a quick motion with the lines and let them drop very suddenly and when she turned to see what was the matter, he was dead—did not seem to breathe or speak again.

He was born in Russell county near Montpelier, May 4th, 1843.

He was a son of Dr. Milton Wolford, one of the pioneer physicians of that community. He was 71 years old his last birthday.

When he reached his young manhood he was married to Miss Martha Darnell in 1860. In a short time he built him a new home near his father.

In 1861 or 1862, in the spirit of true patriotism he left his young bride and home and enlisted in Co., B. 13th Ky Inf., O. B. Patterson's company, and served his country as a faithful soldier to close of the war. When he returned from the war he remained in the old home neighborhood for some years and then moved over on Green River and lived there a few years, then moved near Roley, living in that neighborhood the rest of his life.

Nine children were born to this union, and all of them attended the funeral service but one—Mrs. Ford, who was not able to be there. John and George, the twin brothers, are the eldest.

His wife preceded him, that a man give his life for years to the Home Land.

Mr. Wolford made a great contribution of religion in his young manhood days and united with the Baptist church at old Liberty, near the old home, and lived a faithful Christian life the balance of his days. Some years ago he united with the Christian church at Roley, where most all of his people are members.

The writer has been intimately acquainted with him from early childhood, and I think I can safely say he was a clean Christian man, faithful to his family, and an obliging neighbor. There are only 8 of Company B. left. A splendid citizen has gone to his reward.

A. Friend.

In Memory of Mother.

The saddest word in language is separation, and one of the heart-rending trials in mortal experience is the breaking asunder of ties that bind human hearts in love—especially the matchless love and devotion of a sainted mother to her adoring children.

Mother has gone from us, but Jesus says: "Fear not. I shall make death the gateway to paradise for you all."

So although our finite natures must grieve and mourn in this temporary separation, we know that the sweet and gentle spirit of our adored one has only passed through the portal of this gateway and entered upon its endless heritage, wearing a crown of righteousness.

May we, dear sisters and brothers, in this, our mutual loss and sorrow, lean trustingly on the strong arm of Him Who provided this gateway of transcension from this life to God's paradise, realizing that:

"His is the arm that never tires
When human strength gives way;

His is the love that never fails
When earthly loves decay."

Dear mother was born seven miles East of Columbia, Adair county, Kentucky, on September 24th, 1830, was converted to Christ in early womanhood under the preaching of that faithful servant of God—Bro. Ballinger Wright, and united with the congregation at old Zion church, on Russell creek, and after a long and toilsome life of trials, bodily affliction and faithful service, she finished on May 2nd, 1914, in her 84th year, the race that was set before her.

To my dear sister and brother, who by your continued devotion and cheerful ministrations, have contributed most toward relieving the tortures of her declining days, may you be comforted by recalling Jesus' assurance—

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man give his life for his friends."

And while you have not been called upon to make an entire sacrifice, yet we feel that your tireless devotion to her shall come up as a memorial before the Father.

Finally, may this sorrowing, but sanctifying event serve only to engage us all more earnestly in the love and service of Him Who is able to conduct us to a reunion with her.

When on the 16th of January, 1913, I for the last time clasped to my aching bosom the dear, emaciated form of her, my dearest earthly friend, my love and fidelity can best be expressed in these lines:

"The sweetest face in all the world to me,
Set in a frame of snow-white hair;
With eyes whose language is fidelity,
This is my mother. Is she not most fair?

Let fortune smile or frown,
Whiche'er she will,
It matters not, I scorn her fickle ways;
I never shall be quite bereft until,
I lose my mother's honest blame or praise."

Lovers Leap.

The reading public no doubt have all heard and read of "Lovers Leap," and many perhaps are ignorant of the real meaning and circumstances relative to this place. Some possibly believe that it is a place where haunts reign supreme, where superstitious ideas and superstition are being practiced and taught as they were in ancient heathendom. A place where silver winged fairies held moonlight consultations and celebrated their peculiar gift of enchantment by dance, song and festivity.

But such is not the case. In our native State, in Marion Co., just across the Knob from Rileys Station, in a place remote almost from habitation where, a generation ago the rank thistle nodded in the wind and the wild fox dug his hole unscared" is a peculiar freak of nature in the form of a steep precipice, where a young lady in the bloom and flower of youth became despondent and plunged from the topmost peak into the realms of Eternity.

She was of a prominent family descending from a good line of ancestry, the blood of a true Virginian coursed her veins and despondency was brought about by failure in life, financially, of her lover, who was ambitious and true to his manhood and to her. He frankly admitted his failure in life and declined to accept her hand in marriage. The result of which was the fatal leap. He wandered around for a few years and strong drink overcame him and death claimed its own in a Western State prison.

These facts were given to me by an old colored man who was acting as guide for our surveying party while we were actually standing on the brink of the precipice and with such force and effect were they given I shall never have cause to doubt.

Respectfully,
E. G. Hardwick.

Kentucky Death Rate.

Kentucky has a population of 2,336,277, and during the year 1913, exclusive of still-births, there were 30,643 deaths, or 13 deaths per each 1,000, for the year.

The number of deaths per thousand each year in the State varies but very little, and there are only a few states that have a smaller death rate than Kentucky. Nearly all the eastern states gave a larger rate than Kentucky. Even the State of California, the great health resort, has a rate of over 14 to the 1,000.

Just How The Senatorial Race Looks.

Mr. Tom Cromwell, of Lexington, the Kentucky political writer for the Cincinnati Enquirer, and an open advocate for nomination of A. O. Stanley for the Senate, in his letter of last Sunday conceded that Beckham had the race won over McCreary and Stanley with both of these candidates in the field against him and probably would win it over either one of them the other should withdraw.

In our opinion the First Congressional District will be close between Beckham and Stanley with Beckham having the best chance to carry it. A political correspondent from Paducah gives ten out of the thirteen counties to Beckham, but we hardly think it will be that much. McCreary is undoubtedly a poor third in the First district.

Stanley will carry the Second district but only by a small majority. His principal contender in every county in the district will be Beckham and the indications are that Beckham will carry several of the counties. McCreary is not in the race in the Second Coughed for Three Years.

"I am a lover of your godsend to humanity and science. Your medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery, cured my cough of three years standing," says Jennie Flemming of New Dover Ohio. Have you an annoying cough? Is it stubborn and won't yield to treatment? Get a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery to-day. What it did for Jennie Flemming it will do for you, no matter how stubborn or chronic a cough may be. It stops a cough and throat and lung trouble. Relief or money back. 50c and $1.00. district to amount to anything.

Beckham will carry the Third district by a larger majority than Stanley will get in the Second and here also McCreary is a poor third.

In the Fourth District it is Beckham by a big majority although Stanley may carry a county or two. McCreary will not average 200 votes to the county.

In the Fifth District the opposition to Beckham is nearly equally divided at present between McCreary and Stanley, and Beckham has as large vote as either one of them. If the opposition to Beckham unites on either Stanley or McCreary the District will probably give a small plurality against Beckham.

We do not know the situation in the Sixth District, but Beckham's friends are confidently claiming it.

In the Seventh District the race is between Beckham and McCreary with the chances in favor of Beckham and with Stanley third.

In the Eighth District the fight is also between Beckham and McCreary with the chances favorable to Beckham and with Stanley a good third.

Beckham will carry the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Districts by a large majority and Stanley will divide the opposition.

Stanley will get a larger majority in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Districts over McCreary than McCreary will get votes in the rest of the State.

His majority over Stanley in the Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh will exceed Stanley's total vote in the first four Congressional Districts.

Beckham's total vote in the State will be greater than that of Stanley and McCreary combined.

A Permanent Cure For Chronic Constipation

Although these may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about. The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

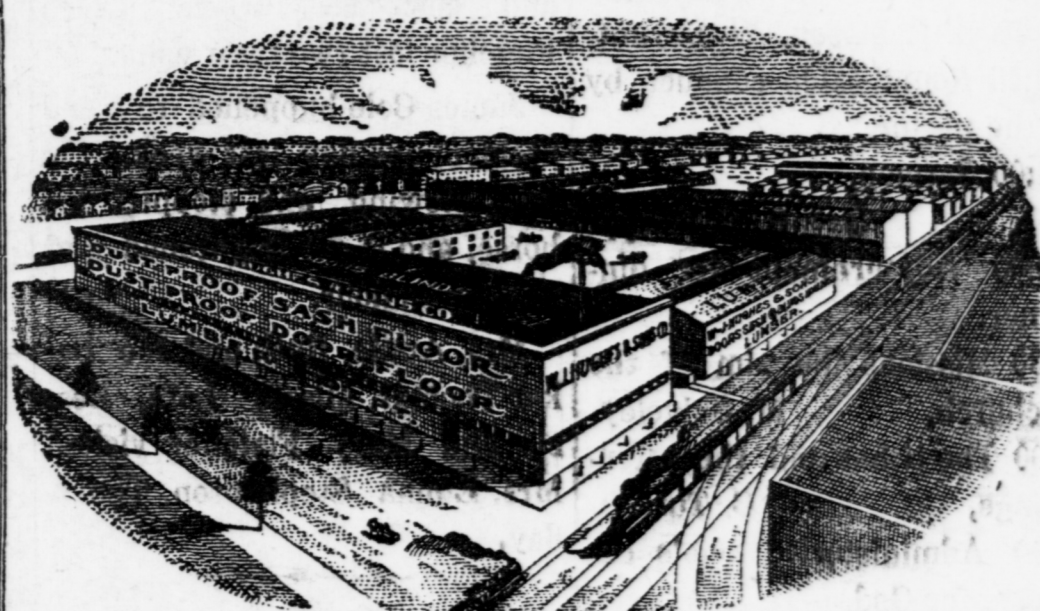

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without gripping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and bowels muscles so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and nature is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are J. F. Blankenship, Sharon, Tenn., and Beulah L. Rogers, Kosmosdale, Ky., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all the family from infancy to old age.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 495 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

After Four Years of Discouraging

Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

From Texas.

Campbell, May 12, 1914.

Editor News:—

Seeing my other letter in the columns of the News, will write again.

We are having plenty of rain. Most every body has their corn plowed the first time. The coming up and will be chop in a few days. All tions point to good crops kinds.

On the night of May 1st, Campbell sustained a loss to the amount of about $35,000 by fire, which originated in the Palace Drug Store about 4 o'clock that morning. The drug store occupied the corner building on the East side, and a strong wind prevailing, the blaze was swept at a rapid rate along the business section, getting the main business block of the town, and is a blow to the business men, although a large portion of the damage was covered by insurance. The exact origin on the fire is unknown. We understand that the business houses lost and damaged will be replaced with modern buildings.

Here are some facts about Texas. The average value per acre of the 12 leading crops of Texas in 1913, was $18.52, while the average for continental United States for the same crops was only $16.31. These crops constitute corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, potatoes, hay, flax seed, cotton, rice and tobacco, and represent more than 90 per cent., of the total area of all crops. The Texas average for these crops during the four years prior to 1913, has been as follows: 1909 $15.50; 1910 $17.87; 1911 $23.97; 1912 $19.50. It costs 800,000 to move Texas cotton crop 1 mile.

Come to Texas where the sun shines brightest, The nights are the rightest and white folks are the whitest, and drunkards get the tightest in Texas. The dust flies thickest, guns click clickest and kill a fellow the quickest in Texas. The sky is the highest in Texas. The people are the shyest, anties are the sleightest, and the driest in Texas.

The skies are bluest, natural deaths are fewest, Here whiskey is cursed, hard to tell which is worst, Die of drowning or thirst, or drink till you burst, in Texas.

Democrats don't go and Republicans? No? But its anti or pro in Texas. We have plenty of candidates here, eight being for Governor. If this escapes the waste basket I will write again.

Respt.,
E. E. Kimbler.

Health Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

Things Worth Knowing.

A roomy drawer is hidden in the seat of a recently patented rocking chair, primarily to hold sewing materials within easy reach.

A material obtained from the thorium waste of the gas mantle industry is gaining popular favor in Germany as a remedy for cancer.

Egg-shaped receptacles in which eggs can be boiled without their shells and served, have been patented by two residents of Washington, D. C.

Japan is rapidly developing the celluloid industry as all the raw materials for its manufacture except nitric acid are produced in that country.

By the use of a new form of hydraulic transmission motor trucks can be driven at varying speeds while the engines are running at a constant rate.

Rheumatism Quickly cured.

"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm" writes a well known resident of Newton, Iowa. "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

Short Items.

Winter is almost too infirm now to do any more lingering.

Kansas is to have two women on the Democratic state ticket at the next election.

More than 400,000 acres of land in Oregon will be thrown open to settlers in June.

There are lots of men who talk more religion in ten minutes than they practice in ten years.

These kind of days makes a man feel like a big boy and give him a sneaking desire to play "hooky" from work.

It is better to have one good idea and carry it into effect than to have a score of good ideas and merely talk about them.

A trip through this section just now ought to be enough to convince anyone that this is the garden spot of the universe.

Cheer Up.

When things ain't going right with you, and you can't make them gee; when business matters look real blue, and you fear bankruptcy; when cobwebs gather on your stock, and customers are rare; when all your assets are in hock, don't cuss and tear your hair. Just listen to this sage advice, and take it if you are wise; give every article a price and then go advertise, and advertise from morn to night don't overlook a day, and soon you'll see the world grow bright, and things will come your way.

Invest in good publicity, and fortune you will greet and in a little while you'll be way up on Easy street.—Luke McLuke.

Indigestion? Can't Eat? No Appetite?

A treatment of Electric Bitters increases your appetite; stops indigestion; you can eat everything. A real spring tonic for liver, kidney and stomach troubles. Cleanses your whole system and you feel fine. Electric Bitters did more for Mr. T. D. Peedle's stomach troubles than any medicine he ever tried. Get a bottle to-day. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

We trust they will be successful.

Mr. Thos. Dowell, bought last week, in Green county, from one Mr. Dulworth, a very fine span of work mules, for $375.00.

We have heard a number of our farmers wishing for rain and enough for a good tobacco season. Some few have as many as twenty or twenty-five acres of ground prepared for transplanting and plenty of plants ready. If the season will admit, there will be the largest crop of the weed in this section that we have had for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gowen, of Edmonton, visited their relatives here one day last.

Mr. Roy Walker, of Nell, in company with Mr. Ashley Pulium, of that community, called to see us while enroute for Columbia one day last week.

Messrs. Morrison & Baker, of Columbia, who are sawing hickory timber, near this place, will close out at the present location in a short time. Mr. Morrison was in our midst a few days ago and informed us that they had not decided where they would locate their mill at for the next set.

We have two of as fine physicians as there are in the county and we are certainly proud of them, and we are glad to say that they are kept busy most all of their time, either in their office, or in the country, and furthermore, we are glad to say to the public, that they are just as good after fish as they are with their patients. For this has been fully demonstrated recently here.

On last Saturday morning, as the sun was making its appearance in the Eastern horizon, your humble reporter noticed our two much needed physicians with all the fishing utensils imaginable, leaving our town in the direction of Russell's Creek, without any one knowing of their whereabouts, (except their better halves,) and if the next day had not been the Sabbath, we would say they returned with the finest lot of fish that ever came from Russell's Creek. The largest we noticed on exhibition was 26 inches long and weighed six pounds. It has been said by people who know that this is the largest that was ever caught out of Russell Creek. They certainly did have some fine fish.

We will be glad to know when the railroad question is settled and it will be settled for a road. Our county will never fully be developed until we have a railroad.

Rowes X Roads.

Some people are nearly ready to pray for it to rain. We haven't had any rain for two weeks. Well, how the farmer has worked for the last two weeks.

The most of the people will get done planting corn this week.
